Letters for Creation
Get going with this project in four easy steps!

Thank you for your interest in Letters for Creation!

Letters for Creation is a ‘climate justice’ arts project that provides a space for children and young people to explore their thoughts and feelings about climate change - and to express themselves creatively through art.

Any sort of art is welcome; it could be photography, painting, sketching, a mural, a poem, or something else. We want the art to communicate how young people feel about the environment and their hopes for a fairer and brighter future.

Christian Aid, a global charity, will be showcasing Letters for Creation from around the world at the Lambeth Conference, as well as at exhibitions around the UK to inspire climate action.

Could your school or group of young people create a powerful reflection on climate justice?
The project has FOUR easy steps:

STEP 1. Explore the idea of ‘Climate Justice’ together as a group.
We have provided some questions that you may find useful to get you started with a discussion on climate justice:

- Is climate change causing any issues locally? What about in other countries?
- What/Who is causing climate change?
- Does climate change affect everyone equally and why?
- Is climate change a social issue?
- How can we address climate change – what are some of the potential solutions?
- What does a just and sustainable future look like for people and planet?
- If we could give a message to world leaders about climate change, what would it be?

(If the young people you work with have limited knowledge of climate change, you could look our Climate Justice lesson plan (while it was written for schools in the UK, the activities may still be useful in your context). The link can be found at: www.caid.org.uk/lettersforcreation.

STEP 2. Get creative – make your art with a message!
Some useful questions to get you started:

- Do you want to create something together as a group or individually (either is good!)
- What do you want to communicate about climate change?
- What does climate change look like in your context?
- What would a better future look like in your context?

STEP 3. Share your art with Christian Aid!

- Please share with us the best quality image you can – we would love to print out your artwork onto posters and the better quality the photo/image the bigger we can make it!
- Email a photo of your art to lettersforcreation@christian-aid.org
- We will share most artworks on our Instagram channel @letters_for_creation

STEP 4. Could you share the project with your wider community?

- Do you want to showcase your creativity through an exhibition?
- Can you get more people to creatively use their voice to speak out on climate justice?
- Can you use your artwork to influence local & national leaders in your context?
- Tell us who you have shared the artwork with and what their reaction was!
